FASHION FAUX PAS?

THE TRUTH ABOUT ZENDAYA

Fans blamed Law's longtime muse Zendaya for his sudden exit after a viral video made it seem like she was dismissive of him at a Louis Vuitton show in Paris. "That wasn't fair...she has always protected me in this industry and vice versa," he says, calling the actress, 26, his "sister."

TENSION WITH TIFFANY

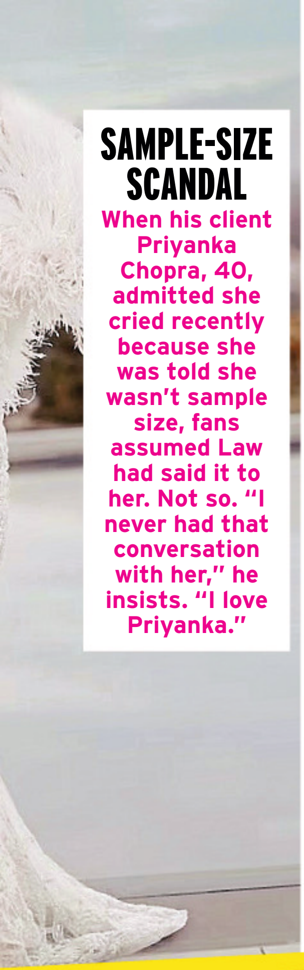
Law had a falling-out with Tiffany Haddish, 43, after she hired new "gatekeepers" who thought he was difficult. "Tiffany was one of the rare cases where she actually became my friend, so I felt stupid. [But] we're good [now]."

GRATEFUL FOR CELINE

"Celine Dion changed my f---ing life," he says of working with the singer, 55, on her 2016 transformation. "One day, she said, 'If anybody ever tries to stagger you or your creativity, let me know, because I want you to fly.'"

LAST JOB

For the Oscars, Law styled Megan Thee Stallion, Kerry Washington, Hailee Steinfeld, Eve Jobs, Hunter Schafer and a mystery woman who never made it to the red carpet after ripping her dress in the limo. The next morning, he got a tense phone call from one of them, which was the last straw: "I don't wanna suffer anymore."



SAMPLE-SIZE SCANDAL

When his client Priyanka Chopra, 40, admitted she cried recently because she was told she wasn't sample size, fans assumed Law had said it to her. Not so. "I never had that conversation with her," he insists. "I love Priyanka."

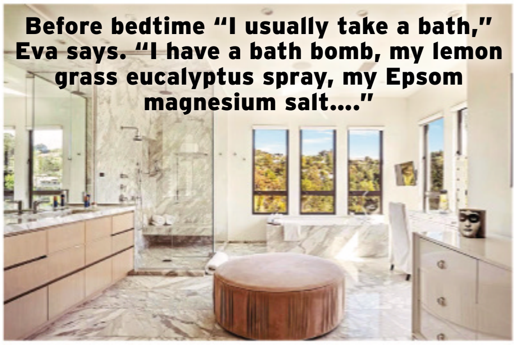
EVA'S
BEVERLY HILLS BEAUTY

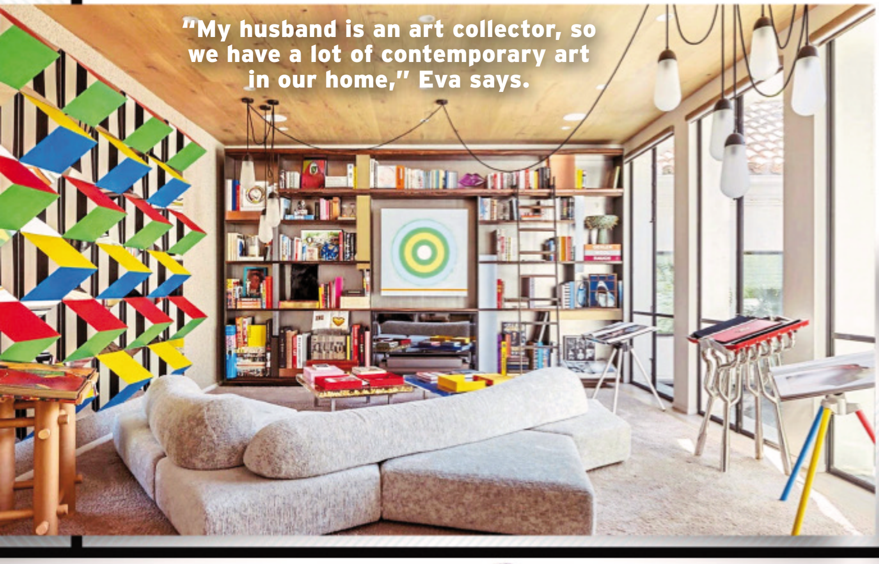
And you thought the homes on Wisteria Lane were nice! Former Desperate Housewives star Eva Longoria and husband José Bastón are on the move and selling their stunning Beverly Hills estate. The couple nabbed the 1.42-acre, ultra-private property in 2016 for $13.5 million. In her next home, Eva is looking for a bigger kitchen. "But I really think I'm insatiable. I think there could never be a kitchen big enough for me," admits the actress, who has her own cookware line, Risa.

The bar in the cabana is no doubt stocked with Eva's very own Casa Del Sol tequila.



Before bedtime "I usually take a bath," Eva says. "I have a bath bomb, my lemon grass eucalyptus spray, my Epsom magnesium salt...."

You won't find a microwave in Eva's kitchen — she doesn't know how to use one!



"My husband is an art collector, so we have a lot of contemporary art in our home," Eva says.

GWYNETH TELLS IT TO THE JUDGE

Gwyneth Paltrow's emotions ran the gamut as she appeared in a Park City, Utah, courtroom on March 21 for the start of a trial over a 2016 skiing accident. The Goop founder is accused of crashing into Terry Sanderson, causing several serious injuries and then abandoning him while they were both skiing at Deer Valley Resort. Craig Ramon, the sole eyewitness to the crash, testified that Gwyneth crashed into Sanderson, but Gwyneth blames him for the collision and insists she didn't bolt from the mountain. The 76-year-old retired optometrist is seeking $300,000 in damages. Gwyneth has filed a countersuit and is seeking $1 in damages.

ANOTHER ONE BITES THE DUST!

Ben & J. Lo DITCH ANOTHER MANSION!

They still can't make up their minds! Ben Affleck, 50, and Jennifer Lopez, 53, have pulled out of escrow once again, this time on a 16,000-square-foot Pacific Palisades mansion priced at $64.5 million. "It was just too over-the-top for Ben, and he put his foot down," a source tells In Touch. "Jennifer was not happy." While renting James Packer's $60 million home, the pair have now backed out of buying three houses — the other two being a 20,000-square-foot Bel Air estate, listed for $55 million, and a $34 million, 15,000-square-foot Pacific Palisades property. "They literally looked at over 50 mansions," including a $65 million, 31,500-square-foot Holmby Hills stunner and the $165 million, 56,500-square-foot Spelling Manor in Beverly Hills, both of which would easily accommodate their combined brood of five kids. "They even considered just renovating J. Lo's house," adds the source, but Ben, who recently sold his own bachelor pad for $28.5 million, "passed on that idea." Will they ever find their dream home? "They obviously have commitment issues. Look how long it took them to get married — almost two decades," points out the source. "Hopefully the house hunt won't last as long."

GUESS WHO?!

She shot to fame as the kid sister on her family's popular reality show, then became a red-carpet fashion critic. Now she's trying to mend fences with the Grammy- and Oscar-winning pop star she once ridiculed, but the singer isn't having it, telling the reality star to hit the road.

RATINGS STUNT?!

Teddi: LISA PAID RAQUEL TO SLEEP WITH TOM!

Real Housewives of Beverly Hills alum Teddi Mellencamp Arroyave dropped a bombshell on a recent episode of Melissa Gorga's On Display podcast. The 41-year-old believes her former friend and co-star Lisa Vanderpump, 62, may have orchestrated "Scandoval" to boost ratings for Vanderpump Rules. "She probably paid Raquel [Leviss] to do this," Teddi suggested of the SUR server's affair with co-star Tom Sandoval. Lisa and Raquel, 28, haven't commented on the accusations, but a source tells In Touch, "that Teddi would even suggest a thing is ridiculous. Yes, Lisa cares a lot about ratings, but not so much so that she would ruin people's lives!"

WHY TYRA HAD TO GO

Tyra Banks doesn't have much to smize about these days. In a shocking switcheroo, the model has been replaced by pro dancer Julianne Hough on Dancing With the Stars. "The energy is magnetic every time you step foot into the ballroom, and I can't wait to feel it again," says Julianne 34, who will be emceeing the Disney+ competition alongside another alum: Alfonso Ribeiro. Days prior to the announcement, Tyra, 49, revealed that she was leaving the show after just three seasons. She famously took over after fan-favorite Tom Bergeron's shocking 2019 ouster but failed to find her footing, announcing the wrong couple during a Season 29 elimination and flubbing names. Says a source: "Tyra never felt like a good fit."

SPARKS FLY Harry and Emily were "all over each other" on the streets of Tokyo, says an eyewitness.

Harry & Emily It's On!

Stabbed in the back? Olivia Wilde's ex Harry Styles moves on with her friend Emily Ratajkowski

They were going at it and didn't care who saw them. Harry Styles and Emily Ratajkowski made out on a bustling street in Tokyo on March 25. Video of their randy encounter — which immediately went viral — shows Emily holding Harry's hand and tenderly grabbing his face as she deepens their kiss, both of them completely disinterested in the pedestrians and bike riders going by. Another clip shows Emily pushed up against a parked silver van with her arms around Harry's neck, the singer planted in front of her, confidently stroking her hip and backside as he presses his lips to hers. In yet more footage, Emily writhes as loud music fills the air, beckoning Harry to join her as she dances in the street.

There's no denying it: Harry and Emily are hooking up. "It's definitely on," a source tells In Touch. Four months after Harry, 29, split from actress-director Olivia Wilde, 39, following nearly two years together, he's moved on with Emily, 31, who's been on a dating tear since leaving her husband of four years, Sebastian Bear-McClard, last summer amid claims the film producer had cheated on her. "Harry is notorious for being obsessed with his privacy and usually does whatever he can to ensure nobody finds out what he's up to," says the source. "But he couldn't help himself with Emily and let his guard down" while spending time with her during the Japanese leg of his Love On Tour. "They're hot and heavy and really enjoying themselves."

IT'S COMPLICATED

Apparently, Harry has known Emily for some time now. On July 5 — a few weeks before the world learned that Emily and Sebastian's marriage was in trouble — she was photographed in the audience at Harry's Paris concert sitting next to Olivia, who was still with Harry at the time. An unconfirmed tip shared by Instagram gossip account Deux Moi claims the seemingly innocent outing was actually part of a trip that was far more intimate for the three. (The rumor is too X-rated to print!)

Almost a year later, on March 12, Emily and Olivia were photographed hanging out together at Vanity Fair's Oscar party. It didn't go

OLIVIA LEANS ON JASON!

The same day Harry and Emily's new romance made headlines, his ex, Olivia, spent time with her ex, Jason Sudeikis, at their son's soccer game in LA. She even gave the Ted Lasso star, 47, a hug goodbye. The cordial outing came days after the former couple's custody battle over kids Otis, 8, and Daisy, 6, took another nasty turn. Olivia and her lawyer accused Jason of being "underhanded" by employing "intimidation or trickery" to try for a second time to get the case moved to NYC, where he now lives, instead of LA, where Olivia has been based with the kids in recent years. On March 23, a judge sided with Olivia, who further accused Jason of trying to "litigate her into debt" since he earns far more than her monthly income of $71,667, court papers revealed. "They may lash out at each other legally," explains an insider, "but when they see each other, feelings come back and they can be quite friendly."

unnoticed by fans. “Do you think they discussed the time they were all in Paris together?” asked an online commenter. “For Olivia, this thing between Harry and Emily has got to sting,” says the source. “No matter what the nature of the relationship was between the three of them, Emily got the guy in the end and seems to have stabbed Olivia in the back. But Olivia had to know she was playing with fire by being OK with Emily entering the picture.”

Before Olivia, Harry famously dated stars including singer Taylor Swift, 33, models Kendall Jenner, 27, and Camille Rowe, 33, plus a plethora of women who managed to stay under the radar. After splitting from Olivia, he was briefly linked to 28-year-old Australian fashion blogger and social media influencer Yan Yan Chan.

Emily, meanwhile, has enjoyed flings with a slew of men since filing for divorce from Sebastian, with whom she shares son Sylvester, 2. After spending time with Brad Pitt, 59 — news of their secret romance blew up in September — she was photographed kissing DJ Orazio Rispo, 35, in October. She dated comedian Pete Davidson, 29, in November, then artist and fashion designer Jack Greer, 35, in December and comedian Eric André, 40, in January and February. “Emily is well aware of Harry’s past. It doesn’t bother her,” says the source. “She’s been sewing some oats herself.”

TURNING UP THE HEAT

Emily recently claimed she’s not looking for anything serious right now. “I do think that there is this kind of thing of anytime I’m seen with somebody, people are like, ‘Oh, they’re in a relationship,’ and it’s like, ‘What if I’m just spending time with somebody?’ I haven’t been dating for a relationship,” she said on a January episode of her High Low podcast. “I’m definitely open to it... but, in general, I’ve just been trying to enjoy myself.”

She certainly seems to be having a hell of a time with Harry. “Emily thinks he’s talented and gorgeous. He’s exactly what she needs right now,” says the source. After the heartbreak of her failed marriage and adjusting to life as a single mom, “she deserves to have some fun.”

And nothing and no one — even Olivia — is going to stop Emily from spending more time with Harry. “She’s really into him. It’s been two months already. There’s even buzz she wants to move to London to be with him,” says the source. “And he’s really into her.”

The Grammy winner has a month off before he begins the final leg of his world tour in Europe in May — which gives him plenty of chances to romance Emily even more. “They’re having a lot of fun. There’s mutual respect and love, crazy infatuation, off-the-charts chemistry,” says the source. “Their relationship really couldn’t be any hotter or sexier. Whether that will turn into something much more serious remains to be seen.” ■

IS SELENA DATING ZAYN?

SPOTTED TOGETHER!

A hot new romance – or just a rumor that’s spread like wildfire? On March 23, TikTok user Klarissa Garcia posted a screengrab of an alleged recent WhatsApp message exchange she had with a friend who works as a restaurant hostess at a celebrity-frequented eatery in NYC. “Tell me how Selena Gomez and Zayn [Malik] just walked into [my restaurant] hand in hand making out and I seated them,” the hostess wrote, drawing an expletive-filled response from a stunned Klarissa. Within hours, the sighting linking Selena and the former One Direction singer – who shares a 2-year-old daughter with supermodel ex Gigi Hadid, 27 – had gone viral. “Now every one is wondering: Are they dating?” says a source. “Selena is one of just 18 accounts Zayn follows on Instagram, and they definitely run in the same circles, so it wouldn’t be surprising.” They’ve been linked before, too. In 2016 when Zayn was dating Gigi, Selena and then-boyfriend Justin Bieber, 29, accused each other of being unfaithful, with Justin commenting to her on Instagram, “I cheated...oh I forgot about You and Zayn?”

Reese & Jim
THE TRUTH ABOUT THEIR SPLIT

FINAL MEMORIES

After years of tension, Reese Witherspoon and Jim Toth finally call it quits right before their 12th anniversary

They had been trying to make it work for years. In 2020, in a series of emotional confessions, Reese Witherspoon admitted to breaking down in tears and feeling "overwhelmed" shortly before she and husband Jim Toth sold their Pacific Palisades, Calif., home. The next year, Reese was spotted without her wedding ring, as the pair unloaded their $21.5 million Brentwood, Calif., mansion and she paid $18 million for an estate in her hometown of Nashville. "Tensions are high," a friend told In Touch at the time. "Their marriage is hanging on by a thread."

And this year, it finally snapped. "It is with a great deal of care and consideration that we have made the difficult decision to divorce," they announced in a joint statement on March 24, two days before their 12th wedding anniversary. "It's no secret that this has been brewing for some time, and the truth is they grew apart," says a source. But with $900 million at stake from the 2021 sale of her media company, Hello Sunshine, "friends say it's getting nasty already."

WHAT WENT WRONG

They had long led separate lives. "No one cheated," assures the source. But ever since the pandemic, during which another pal described their home life as "quarantine hell," the pair have spent less and less time together. (Reese, 47, who posts on Instagram nearly every day, hasn't shared a photo of her husband, 52, since around last Christmas; see left.)

She's also been working nonstop. "Some say her busy career took precedence over everything else," the source says of the famously type-A Oscar winner, who's juggling acting gigs with dozens of production projects through Hello Sunshine (which she still has a stake in), while running her clothing line, Draper James. "She's been known to spread herself thin." Meanwhile, Jim's career had been on the downturn since the failure of his streaming service, Quibi, after just six months in 2020. "He's supportive of Reese, but her success is sometimes tough for him to deal with. Quibi was a costly mistake," says the source.

The sale of Hello Sunshine for nearly $1 billion helped. "Reese still oversees the company, and she and Jim, who was a part owner, obviously made a lot of money," the source says of the deal. But the divorce, predicts an insider, "will still be costly for Reese, because she's by far the breadwinner. That's one reason she held on for so long."

But she finally had to let go. They're doing their best to keep things amicable as they co-parent son Tennessee, 10, says the source, "but divorce has been known to bring out the worst in people — especially when there's so much money involved." ■

WHO SHOULD REESE DATE NEXT?

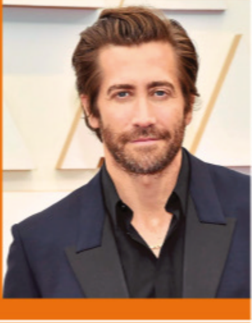
Thanks to his recent split from Gisele Bündchen after 13 years, the retired football legend, 45, can certainly relate to how careers can interfere with marriage.

JASON SUDEIKIS
The funny guy, 47, was reportedly heartbroken by his 2020 split from Olivia Wilde – and Reese would be an amazing rebound!



JAKE GYLLENHAAL
He never got over her! The 42-year-old, who dated Reese from 2007 to 2009, called her "one of the smartest, strongest people I've ever met."

The 5-foot-9 model, 26, works out for hours a day – and it shows! "I run nonstop for 20 minutes followed by a boxing session and finally a series of weights targeting the abs and glutes," explains the model, who reportedly weighs 120 pounds.

NAOMI WATTS

The 5-foot-5 actress, 54, who's estimated to weigh 125 pounds, starts her day with a streaming class. "I love Taryn Toomey's 'The Class.' It's a real release," she says. "I also discovered Isaac Calpito's live Instagram workout [@isaacboots]. It's a really hard workout." But maybe she needs to take a day off?

JESSICA SIMPSON

The mom of three, 42, "seems to weigh less than her 10-year-old daughter, Maxwell!" one fan cried recently. The 5-foot-3 star famously went from 240 to 140 pounds following the birth of her daughter Birdie, now 4. "But she continues to lose more weight and it's alarming," says a source.

PIN-THIN LEGS!

HAILEY BIEBER

Did the 5-foot-7 model, 26, lose weight for Fashion Week this year? She wouldn't know. "Never go on the scale except for at the doctor," she advises. (Nutrition expert Dr. Fred Pescatore, who doesn't treat Hailey, estimates she weighs 115 pounds.)

ARIANA GRANDE

The singer, 29, who flaunted her barely there waist recently in LA, follows somewhat of a macrobiotic Japanese diet. "She loves daikon, lotus, adzuki beans," trainer Harley Pasternak says of his client, who, at 5 feet tall, is estimated to weigh 104 pounds.

ANYA TAYLOR-JOY

The 5-foot-8 actress, who's estimated to weigh 114 pounds, wore to the 2021 Emmys a dramatic backless Dior dress that exposed her protruding bones. "I used to be a ballet dancer," says Anya, 26. "I do really miss how strong my body used to be, so I'm getting back into dancing properly, and also kickboxing. I just did my first Pilates reformer class and loved it."

KELLY RIPA

The Live With Kelly and Ryan host, 52, had a fashion moment at this year's Oscars in a see-through lace gown. The cutout back "showed just how fit and lean she is," an eyewitness says of the 5-foot-2 star, who's estimated to weigh 110 pounds.

VICTORIA BECKHAM

A strict diet is key for the 5-foot-4 fashion designer, 48. "I eat lots of fresh fish, fresh vegetables and salads, as well as seeds and nuts," explains Victoria, who weighs roughly 112 pounds. "I also love fruit but don't eat too much, as it can make me feel quite bloated."

AURORA POLICE
COLORADO
COMMUNITY COMMITMENT

HIS MUG SHOT

LIVING A LIE

"We're all just in shock," James' former employee Chelsea Norton said of his arrest for killing his wife, Angela. "They were the nicest, sweetest family, with such cute kids."

INCRIMINATING ORDER!

Her symptoms were alarming. After drinking a protein shake made by her husband, James, on March 6, Angela Craig texted him complaining she was dizzy and sluggish, "like I'm moving in thick gel," she wrote. "I feel drugged."

That's because she had been poisoned, police believe. Angela was declared brain dead on March 15, shortly after the mother of six was rushed to an Aurora, Colo., hospital and taken off life support four days later. "Our team tirelessly worked to uncover the truth behind the victim's sudden illness and death," local Division Chief Mark Hildebrand announced after arresting James on March 19 for causing her death. "It was quickly discovered this was in fact a heinous, complex and calculated murder."

UNDETECTABLE TOXINS

The investigation uncovered chilling evidence. On Feb. 27, police discovered that someone used a computer at James' suburban Denver dental office to search "how to make poison," "is arsenic detectable in autopsy," and "top 5 undetectable poisons that show no signs of foul play." Police allege James ordered arsenic from Amazon before Angela became ill, and also placed orders for other deadly poisons, including potassium cyanide and oleandrin (see sidebar). After Angela was admitted to the hospital for the final time on March 15, one of his employees alerted cops about the cyanide that had been recently delivered to his office, despite the fact that there was no use for it in a dental setting. (The oleandrin delivery was intercepted by the police.) James, who insists he is innocent, admitted he purchased the cyanide, but claimed his wife asked him to because she was suicidal. Ironically, Angela had told a loved one that he had drugged her about five years ago, according to the police report, "because he planned to commit suicide" and didn't want her "to be able to save him." And when she told him her symptoms in March, he texted, "given our history, I know that must be triggering."

Their 23-year marriage was tumultuous, cops learned. According to the police report, Angela, 43, had told a loved one that James, 45, had "multiple affairs" and that he "had run the dental office into the ground and their finances were dire."

THE OTHER WOMAN

Even worse? While she lay dying in the hospital, police allege James' mistress, an orthodontist with whom he had been exchanging "intimate" and "sexually explicit" emails, flew in from Austin, Texas, to visit him. They believe he wanted to "end his wife's life" to "start a new life" with the other woman, the report reads.

Now her family is grappling with the tragic loss. "[I've] known him 20 years, and to see him here, under these circumstances, with what he's been accused of, it's hard to reconcile," Angela's brother, Mark Pray, said of James' first court appearance on March 23, adding that the family is focusing on the kids as they all grieve for Angela. "We're heartbroken. I'm still trying to put into words what she means to us all." ■

A DEADLY CONCOCTION

James received an order of arsenic on March 4, two days before Angela began complaining of dizziness, weakness and nausea. She was hospitalized March 9 to 14 – then again on March 15 – but doctors couldn't figure out what was wrong. On March 13, a canister of potassium cyanide was delivered to James. Two days later, Angela suffered a seizure and died. While both poisons are notoriously difficult to detect, cops noted the symptoms they cause "are consistent with the symptoms Angela was experiencing and that ultimately killed her."

FAMILY BUSINESS
"Women went from being eye candy to the main event, but we still have it harder," says Charlotte, with her dad, Ric, who retired in 2022.

InTouch with … CHARLOTTE FLAIR

On WrestleMania 39,

I FINALLY GET TO BE THE GOOD GUY!

After more than a decade in the ring, the WWE champ is putting her villainous alter ego to rest

For years, WWE star Charlotte Flair has played the role of a villain in the ring. But for WrestleMania 39*, she gets to play nice for a change. "For so long, my job has been, 'Don't like me,'" says the 37-year-old daughter of legendary wrestler Ric Flair. "I've had to beg people to boo me. I love having the opportunity to be a good guy. I'm soaking it all in." Here, Charlotte, who wed fellow wrestler Manuel Andrade Oropeza last May, talks to* In Touch*'s Fortune Benatar about joining the family business, keeping the memory of her late brother Reid alive (he died of a heroin overdose at age 25 in 2013), and her sweet guilty pleasure.*

How are you feeling about your upcoming match against Rhea Ripley?
CF: This is going to be the most exciting WrestleMania for me personally. I'm in new territory. I get to interact with the kids naturally, not being a bad guy.

How do you train leading up to a match?
CF: If I don't get it done in an hour and 15, I'm done. I isolate muscle groups, so one day is shoulders, biceps and triceps, and the next is just the back or glutes. I don't do a lot of cardio, because I wrestle three days a week and that's my cardio.

Did you always know you'd follow in your famous dad's footsteps?
CF: I was at dinner with my dad and WWE producer Johnny Laurinaitis in 2012. Johnny was like, "Hey, why aren't you doing this?" I had graduated college and was a personal trainer. I said yes solely to help my brother Reid get on the right path after he failed a couple of drug tests. I started that July, and he died three months later.

Wow.
CF: From that moment, I dedicated everything to living his dream. I spent so many years trying to save his life, but, ultimately, he saved mine. He was the one with a dream and the one who was fearless. I was the one who only thought inside the box. I dedicate my entire career to him.

What did you learn from him and your dad?
CF: From my dad, it's: If you don't believe in yourself, the fans aren't going to believe you. And Reid sent me a message before he died saying, "When I get tired and want to give up, I think of you." So, when days are s----y, you can't give up, because someone is depending on you.

Manny got in the ring with your father in 2022. What was that like to watch?
CF: I was jealous! It's cool seeing your dad and husband do their thing.

Do you and Manny want to have kids?
CF: Absolutely. It's on our radar. We'll know when it's the right time.

Would you ever do a reality show like Nikki and Brie Bella?
CF: Yes and no. I'd want it to be about Manny and me versus me and my dad. But I don't like drama, so I'd want it to be educational.

Are you close with them?
CF: We don't go out to dinner or anything, but we communicate. I'm so impressed with how they branched out. They proved it can happen, so I'm definitely taking notes.

What's your advice to those starting out?
CF: Don't limit yourself. I'm not saying it's easy, but just go for it. ■

KEEPING THE SPARK ALIVE
"I still get butterflies, even after four years together," she says of her husband, Manny.

TUNE IN! WrestleMania 39 airs live on Peacock on Saturday, April 1 and Sunday, April 2 at 8 p.m.

ON A LIGHTER NOTE…

Charlotte answers some burning questions!

WHAT EMOJI DO YOU USE MOST?

Probably the heart hands.

FAVORITE MOVIE?

I have a few, but I can watch The Lion King over and over.

GUILTY PLEASURE?

Ben & Jerry's Cherry Garcia ice cream.

WHO'S MADE YOU THE MOST STARSTRUCK?

Bad Bunny. My husband introduced me to reggaeton, and he has such a swag and confidence to him. He took our industry so seriously when he came to the ring. It was so refreshing to see that he wanted to be good at his parts.

WHAT WAS A RECENT SPLURGE PURCHASE YOU MADE FOR YOURSELF?
The Rene Caovilla Snake Chelsea Booties. I love these boots, they're so sexy, but I didn't really need them.

Raico lives in Ontario and is 47 years old. He is passionate about fitness and healthy living. In his early 30s however, he started losing his hair, due to what he thought was stress.

"When I started losing my hair, I was very surprised as there was no history of hair loss in my family. I tried to find ways to hide the thin spot, including micro needling and extra biotin, but nothing worked. I was determined to find a long-lasting solution.

It was at my local Costco that I came across Hair Gro from New Nordic. I was hesitant about hair supplements, but this one used naturally derived ingredient, and the claimed benefits convinced me to try it.

To my surprise I started to get results after only a few months. In fact, a friend of mine noticed lots of increased hair growth, so he immediately started taking pictures. I couldn't be happier with the results and highly recommend this product for anyone with thin hair."

A FRUIT EXTRACT FOR HAIR GROWTH?

Scientists in Kuala Lumpur have identified compounds in palm fruits, called tocotrienols, which in clinical studies, have shown to significantly promote hair growth and hair count. These so-called "super antioxidants", from the vitamin E family, and are thought to help reduce inflammation levels especially in the scalp, which is a condition associated with hair loss.

WHAT THE STUDIES ARE SHOWING

Clinical studies done at the University of Kuala Lumpur, are repeatedly confirming the effects of tocotrienols. In a study, done to obtain a patent, scientists showed that every person in the study group, taking the specific tocotrienol complex, had positive results. The mean increase in hairs was 42%*.

In a study, done to obtain a patent, scientists showed that every person in the study group, taking the specific tocotrienol complex, had positive results. The mean increase in hairs was 42%*.

In a second, and larger study, done to confirm these results, the number of hairs in a pre-determined scalp area was observed at 0, 4 and 8 months. The results were significant. The number increased by 16% at 4 months on average, and by 34.5% at the end of the 8-months, compared to a 0.1% decrease in the control group.*
